Applications are open for the 2018 Autumn School, which will be held in Graz, Austria. We are seeking nursing science students of the Medical University of Graz to join us for a unique professional experience this coming autumn. This two-week autumn school is an intensive course offered in partnership between La Trobe University, Australia, and the Institute of Nursing Science at the Medical University of Graz.

Students from Austria and Australia will learn together and from each other about various aspects of care for older people and chronic illness. During this 2-week-course, students will be actively involved and have the opportunity to discuss and deepen their English language skills, but will also have fun, spend time together and find new friends.

Who?

Nursing science students (5th semester)

(The autumn course is adapted to the schedule of the 5th semester of the Bachelor programme Nursing Science, but, of course, any interested students from other semesters and study programmes are welcome to join.

Application?

The deadline for application is October 1st, 2018.

To apply, please send an email to gerhilde.schuettengruber@medunigraz.at and manuela.schatz@medunigraz.at

When?

The course will be held from November 26th to December 06th, 2018.